

Opinion

Keep Saras straight when you head to polls

Sunday, October 19, 2008 2:58 AM EDT

To the editor:

I was wearing a campaign button that said "Sara for Senate." The first person I talked to said "I saw her debate on TV." I replied quickly: Oh no, you didn't. You saw the Sarah from Alaska who is running for vice president. This button is for Sara Orozco from Needham. She is running for the state Senate representing 12 towns from Attleboro (wards 1, 2 and 3A), through all of North Attleboro, Plainville, Wrentham and Norfolk to as far as Wayland.

The two Saras are both attractive young mothers running for office, but in most respects they are opposites. Sara Orozco is a highly intelligent, competent, calm, personable, remarkably fair-minded Democrat. She has a PhD, a private medical practice and her own small business. Those who have met her have been overwhelmingly impressed.

In a district this large, though, she cannot visit every voter. There is however, a virtual way for you to see her. Watch her brief e-mail production called "Knock, Knock, Who's There?" Go to SaraOrozco.com and click on the Virtual Door Knock section in the right margin. I strongly recommend it.

Sterling Alam