Make vote count for better education

To the editor:

As we anticipate an exciting, important presidential election, we must not forget the important state races on the ballot, especially given the uncertain financial times. I am supporting Sara Orozco because of her dedication to education, including higher education, which must remain affordable for middle income families. Sara also has a professional background in health care and again understands the stress that face individuals and families face when confronted by massive medical costs.

Please join me in electing Sara Orozco to the state Senate on Nov. 4.
